

Answering your Questions

What are the benefits of single-sex education for girls?

In a recent survey, our Sixth Formers made the following comments

- We have more chance to take on leadership roles
- We are less inhibited in traditionally 'boys' subjects such as Maths or Science
- We like the relaxed, supportive atmosphere of our Common Room

Will my IB be recognised by universities and in other countries?

- Yes. All British Universities accept the IB and an increasing number prefer it to A Levels. It is widely accepted by higher education establishments globally. The IB Diploma as taught at Cobham meets the requirements to be validated in other countries such as Germany.

What additional activities are available?

- We offer an exciting programme of after-school and weekend activities. Continue a favourite sport or hobby, or try something different, such as learning a musical instrument or a new sport.

What nationalities are represented at Cobham Hall?

- We are a truly international community, with the following nationalities currently represented.

English Tradition
Global Education

What our Students say:

I have learnt a lot about other countries and their cultures. I will never forget our discussions, our trips, the music festival, movie nights and all the other activities organised for us.

I have had so many life shaping experiences at Cobham. Being there taught me, above all, to be confident and to believe in myself.'

There is a wide range of nationalities at Cobham, so there is never a problem making friends.

Even though I am sad to leave I am sure to embrace any further challenges, as Cobham has taught me well that 'there is more in you than you think' .

Religious beliefs and different cultural ideals are respected and celebrated. English is the language spoken during the working day by all students. Each year a Student Leadership Team of Sixth Form students is elected by the whole school. These students play a significant part in the running of the school, including organising social events within and outside the school.

Located in quiet countryside, Cobham Hall is within easy distance of all London's airports. The Eurostar station, Ebbsfleet International, is only 5 minutes away, with fast trains to Paris and Brussels, and high-speed trains to London St. Pancras taking only 17 minutes.

Bluewater, 15 minutes away, is one of Europe's leading shopping centres with cinemas and restaurants.
